of Orangeburg, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. S. H. Brown, at Woodmere, New York, Saturday night. Mr. Kohn had been in apparent good health until a week ago, when he suffered an attack of acute indigestion, which later affected his heart.

Mr. Kohn was born in Orangeburg in 1850, having celebrated his 76th birthday just a month ago. He was the oldest citizen of Orangeburg, who had been born there. The funeral will be held from the home at Orangeburg Wednesday, burial to be with Masonic honors.

Mr. and Mrs. Kohn celebrated in Orangeburg in May, 1925, the 50th anniversary of their marriage. The Old Volunteer Fire brigade on that occasion called upon them in a body, accompanied by the present professional fire department, in recognition of Mr. Kohn’s long interest in their work.

At one time associated with his brother, the late Theodore Kohn, father of August Kohn of Columbia, Mr. Kohn later for some years conducted alone a mercantile business in Orangeburg, but had been some time retired.

HENRY Kohn...

The funeral...at Orangeburg last Wednesday was one of the most impressive ever held in the state...Mr. Kohn was the oldest native born resident of Orangeburg...One of the first things he did as a very young man was to establish the Young America Fire company. That was 50 years ago. Of that company there are six of the original members living, all over 70 years of age. Those white haired men were the honorary pall bearers. And while the funeral services were being conducted at the home...the city fire bell tolled.

Of all things Mr. Kohn loved best his music. He was an accomplished violinist, having taught many successful pupils. He had been for half a century the leader of the Orangeburg orchestra, a non-professional organization. The young men members of this orchestra were the active pallbearers....

GEORGES M. KOHN WRITES OF HIS MOTHER’S FUNERAL & HOME...

Driving down from Atlanta last Sunday to attend the funeral of my dear mother, Mrs. Henry Kohn, I told my wife that I expected only the family and a few relatives and friends.

I was wrong. Entirely wrong. I had not counted on the "human element" of "old friends."

The eulogy of Dr. Solomon the minister, was the most human and most true I ever heard. He told of mother's love of flowers and other beautiful things of life. Of her devotion to her religion. Of her love for other people. Her help with my father, who died twelve years ago, to raise money for every good cause through their musical ability... It was a beautiful tribute to a noble woman...

...Among others present (at the services) was my Aunt, Mrs. Annie Hughes of Savannah, my mother's only living sister.

At the graveyard - a hot, sunny August Sunday - a perfect reception was held after the burial ceremonies. To my great surprise there were eleven men - most of them with their wivies - who came up to speak to me - all of whom spoke of my mother as "Mother Kohn." Every one of these men had been members of my father's Philharmonic orchestra. There was Otto Spahr, bass fiddle; Jerome McMichael, trombone; Harry Dawson, cornet; Ted Wolfe, violin; L. Bennett, cornet, and all the others I can't remember. God bless them. They stood in that hot sun to tell me of their love for my mother. It was a grand tribute.

After the funeral I went to the old home site - 176 East Russell street. We sold the old home last year. It is now a business place. But I can remember it as it was forty years ago. A HOME where every body was welcome. A meal always ready. And music. And the flowers my mother loved so well. A vine of gorgeous roses shading the front porch, and the glorious odor of tea olive and hyacinths and lilacs coming through the windows - and Japonica - the world's finest. It was a show place of flowers.

I can remember when my father got some seed from a Congressman; we planted them and had the first cantaloupes in Orangeburg. I had a donkey and cart and sold these melons all over town. Then we got asparagus and raised that crop. And, by pruning the peach and pear trees we always had the largest and best fruit...

Sunday at the funeral all these memories came back to me...

HENRY "RED" MILLER

NEESES, S.C. — Henry "Red" Miller, 57, died Saturday at the Orangeburg Regional Hospital.

Funeral plans will be announced at a later date by the Culler Funeral Home of North, S.C. Born in Aiken County, Mr. Miller was the son of the late William and Cora Williams Miller. He was a veteran of World War II, a member of the Mt. Beulah Bible School, and a retired farmer who had lived most of his life in Neeeses.

Survivors include: his widow, Mrs. Naomi Chavis Miller; three daughters, Jennie Davis of Neeeses, Yvonne Fall of Olar, S.C., and Cathy McCollum of North; three sons, Jimmy Clyde Miller and Troy Miller of Neeeses, and Jerry A. Miller of Orangeburg; five sisters, Mary M. Hughes, Lois M. Livingston and Betty Spiers of Orangeburg; Gloria Williams of Neeeses, and Eula Lee Miller of West Columbia, S.C.; and two brothers, Aden M. Miller and James Miller of Columbia.

When 71-year-old Joe Miller died on Dec. 31, 1979, he left everything he had in this world to charity — everything, that is, except a sum of money for his goddaughter and a watch and Masonic ring, willed to his dear friend Mordic Rubenstein.

For a decade Miller had been the only Jewish person living in the Elloree community. In his will he remembered Christian charities as well as Jewish charities. This gesture, say friends, was characteristic of Joe.

Miller, an Elloree merchant retired since 1973, had not a relative on earth at the time of his death, the last day of the 1970 decade. He had neither wife nor family.

But townspersons say he was blessed with many friends, "loads of friends, both white and black," according to one local man.

"He had no relatives at all," noted Rubenstein, an Elloree merchant who lives in Orangeburg. "This is the only funeral I've ever attended where not a relative was there. It kind of gave me a funny feeling, but all his friends were there."

"During Joe's years in Elloree he was a kind man and helped many, many people. We were competitors but always went to lunch together. Everyone was his friend. He enjoyed talking to the people about the history of Elloree. He loved it here," added Rubenstein, who is also Jewish.

The terms of Miller's estate were simple, but fairly unusual in the large percentage of property bequeathed to charity.

He donated $500 each to four Christian churches in Elloree, $250 to the Elloree Mentor Book Club, $2,500 to Orangeburg's Temple Sinai, $1,000 to the Beth Sholem-Beth Israel congregation in Charleston, and $500 to Savannah Hebrew Day School in Savannah.

He willed all his household furniture, pictures, plates, china, ornaments, wearing apparel, hobby equipment, sporting goods and other household articles to the Brookland Plantation Home for Boys in Orangeburg.

After funeral and other expenses, the remainder of Miller's property, which included the sale of his house and car, was left to a living" Joseph J. Miller. Foundation established with a bank by him for charitable purposes on Jan. 5, 1973.

The annual net income from this foundation—a foundation estimated at a total $500,000—will be allocated every year to religious, scientific, literary or educational charities, or any other 100 percent charitable cause, according to Rubenstein, a member of the three-member board which will administer the funds.

Half of each annual charitable allocation from the foundation will go to Jewish charities and half to non-Jewish charities. The total yearly allocation will be about $40,000, depending on interest rates.

Born in Philadelphia, Miller worked in the Pennsylvania coal belt in the retail business as a young man. In the 1930s he continued his retail career in Augusta, Ga., and Sumter, S.C., before making the final move in 1946 to the small town of Elluree. It was there that he bought a Main Street department store from local merchant C.M. Montgomery.

The story goes that Montgomery had a change of heart and bought back the store soon after selling it to Miller. But the next day, after making a trip to the doctor who admonished him to retire, Montgomery resold the store to Miller within a matter of days. Mr. and Mrs. Montgomery remained good friends with Miller for many years and he boarded in their home during his first year in Elluree.

Friends say Miller was a quiet man who loved fishing and planned to travel extensively before his health failed. For years he served as Masonic Lodge secretary.

Elluroe merchant C.B. Hall who once traveled with Miller to Nova Scotia on a vacation, said "Everybody kind of adopted Joe and would take him over things to eat. He fitted into the community and did for everybody. He was really at home in anybody's home."

E.V. Mirmow Sr., businessman and Legion baseball pioneer, dies at 95

By LEE HENDREN
T&D Staff Writer

Prominent Orangeburg businessman, bank co-founder and sports enthusiast Edward Victor "Eddie" Mirmow Sr. died early Tuesday after a long illness. He was 95.

Graveside services will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. at the Hebrew Cemetery within Orangeburg's Sunnyside Cemetery, with Rabbi T. Sanford Marcus officiating.

Although he has departed from this life, his name will live on at the American Legion Post 4 baseball field he nurtured. In 1948 the Orangeburg City Council voted unanimously to name the city's newly constructed baseball park "Mirmow Field" in his honor.

"We're very proud of that designation," Mayor Martin Cheatham said Tuesday. "He succeeded in life, contributed to his community and was a good solid citizen. He has left us with a lot of memories to cherish. His influence, his wealth of knowledge and his friendship will be sorely missed. Our deepest expression of love and appreciation goes to his wife, Becky; his son, Hank; and the other family members."

"He was a mighty fine man, very interested in the youth of Orangeburg," said a longtime friend, Lawrence Garick. In addition to his "years and years" of support for American Legion baseball and Boys State, "he was very interested in the Boy Scouts. ... He was such a force in Orangeburg."

Robert Jennings, who has known Mirmow all of his life, called Mirmow "one of the guiding lights" at the ball field that bears his name. "They had a real good semipro team."

But even before the ball field was built, "all of the neighborhood kids played ball in his yard," said Jennings, who later served with Mirmow on the First National Bank board of directors.

Jennings spoke of his friend's devotion to the Gamecocks. "He was a loyal University of South Carolina alumnus. As long as his health permitted, he went to all of their games. A group of us used to take a bus together, and Mr. and Mrs. Mirmow went on the bus for years. In his later years, when Mirmow wasn't able to attend the games in person, he avidly followed his teams on radio and television," Jennings said.

Athletically, if the Gamecocks were his first love, golf was a close second, Cheatham said.

"Mr. Eddie loved the game of golf," Cheatham said.

said: "He used to play with a group called the Cardiac Group — men in their 80s who were very well known to golfers in the area. They would play nine holes just about every day, and they would walk, not just ride around in the carts." Mirmow was the last survivor of these four close friends.

Mirmow was born in New York City in 1900, the only child of Russian immigrant parents, the late Tannie and Morris Mirmow. The family moved to Orangeburg in 1901.

Mirmow was educated in the Orangeburg city schools and at the University of South Carolina.

An ardent supporter of all sports, Mirmow lettered in baseball and football at USC in 1918-19. In the 1940s he conceived the idea of a high school sports booster club and he founded the Orangeburg Indian Club, an organization that became the blueprint for all other high school booster clubs in South Carolina.

After World War II, he was the instrumental force behind the organization of American Legion baseball in Orangeburg. For 10 years, Mirmow was the athletic officer of Post 4's highly successful baseball program, a team playing its home games in the baseball park named in his honor.

In 1966 Mirmow Field was the site of the American Legion baseball World Series.

Mirmow also established a solid reputation as a businessman.

After his college years, he operated Mirmow's Clothing Store on Russell Street in Orangeburg until 1939, when he established the Mid-State Investment Company, from which he retired in 1980.

He had been the last living founder of the Orangeburg-based First National Bank, the Country Club of Orangeburg and the Orangeburg Rotary Club. For many years he served as a director of First National Bank and later as director emeritus.

He was a charter member of Temple Sinai, a former president of the Rotary Club, a member of the USC Lettermen's Association and the Gamecock Club.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Rebecca Blatt Mirmow of the home; a son, Edward V. Mirmow Jr. of Orangeburg; four grandchildren, Edward V. Mirmow III of Lexington, Mrs. David (Jeanie) Gasque and Robert B. Mirmow, both of Orangeburg, and Dr. Dwight Mirmow of Augusta, Ga.; and six great-grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be Dr. L.P. Thackston Jr., Laurence Wells, Dean B. Livingston, Johnny Gramling, W.W. Fair, Alexander M. (Sandy) Bryant, Watt E. Smith Jr., Dr. Bert Gue, Harold Aronson, Harry McCullough and Larry Westbury.

Friends may call at the residence and at Dukes-Harley Funeral Home. Memorials may be made to a charity of one's choice.

For many years he had served as an elder in the First Presbyterian church, from which place yesterday... his mortal remains were brought and where the last rites were said in laudatory terms by his pastor, the Rev. L. B. McCord...
